

Divine<sup>TM</sup>

Poetry Competition 2009

Win fantastic
Divine Chocolate
prizes for you and your friends

...if I OWNED a CHOCOLATE COMPANY

The Divine Poetry Competition is an annual nationwide competition run by Divine Chocolate and Christian Aid. This year leading author Anthony Horowitz will be leading the judging panel. A wonderful opportunity to creatively explore the issues around fairer trading.

Write a poem imagining how wonderful it would be to own your own chocolate company. What delicious chocolate would you make? And how would you ensure the farmers got a good deal? Or you could write about cocoa farmers owning their own chocolate company (like Divine) and being able to earn big money from the cocoa they grow.

For entry details see overleaf or visit www.divinechocolate.com
Send your entries to: 'Divine Poetry Competition' 4 Gainsford Street, London SE1 2NE or by email to: poetry@divinechocolate.com
For resources for teachers visit: www.christianaid.org.uk/learn
Children can find out more about fair trade at www.papapaa.org
For more posters like this one email: poetry@divinechocolate.com or download this leaflet and poster from the websites.

Open to ages 7-11, 12-16 and 17-adult
Deadline: Monday 21st December 2009

